INCREASED TRAINING

MIT Skills and its partners are working hard to continue to support our apprentices and their employers during this difficult time. We are continuing our apprenticeship delivery via telephone discussions, interactive video conferences, and online workshops and have increased the training delivered during this lockdown period, especially for learners that may have been furloughed. This will allow our apprentices to bank their off-job hours for their return to work. The extra time spent on learning now means a large proportion of our learners will not need to attend college for the first three months after lockdown, better supporting the country's industries to utilise vocational trades, by operating at maximum capacity when recovery begins. The team are proud to confirm that we have maintained a 90% engagement rate for March, and achieved our target rate of 95% for April. MIT Skills would like to thank our employers, who through hard work and co-operation during these exceptional times have been key to this success.

OUR LEARNERS

Learner: Donnell Grant-Lawson

Level 2 Site Carpentry

Apprentice at Pimlico Plumbers

“Donnell has been participating in my remote delivery sessions over the last 2 weeks. He is keeping a very positive attitude towards the work and completing it to a very high standard.

His company, Pimlico Plumbers have been working tirelessly to continue to provide top quality service to London residents and are offering free labour to all NHS staff during this crisis.

Donnell has been taking extra care in residents' homes but truly feels valued as he continues in his apprentice role.

Donnell has been a key student in this years group and the work he has produced in the workshop has been excellent, especially his Hand Cut Hipped Roof and his mock EPA piece.”

- Lee Dunne, Site Carpentry Tutor.

Donnell Grant-Lawson: “I like the independent learning side of things and the content has been interesting. I also like the 1-1 feedback as I feel it’s a lot more personal and I can ask questions freely.”

Kibria Miah: “It pleases me to see a college and tutors really show interest within their students and the progress of their students. It makes me proud to be a student of M.I.T. Skills.”
